

College UN Team Receives Commendation

MSC's newly-formed Model United Nations team made a creditable showing at the Trygve Lie United Nations meet sponsored last week by the State University of Iowa.

The team consists of Ed Christy, Mary Killgore, David Primm, Sally Saville, and Doug Wegener. At the event, the first time out for the group, members were told by the student Secretary General of the United Nations and the student President of the General Assembly that they had one of the top five teams present from among 54 competing teams from various Midwest colleges and universities.

Mr. Gerald Hickman, chairman of the political science department, accompanied the MSC team to the meet where they represented Iran. Several of the Iranian proposals cleared the committees and passed the General Assembly. Their representatives served on the Narcotics and Drug Committee, the Population Committee, the Human Rights Committee, and the Political and Security Committee.

Numerous proposals were debated in each of the committees until one was approved for submission to the General Assembly. Iranian proposals were incorporated into everything that reached the General Assembly.

The MSC participants were involved in the previous committees mentioned and carried out such acts as recognizing international problems and suggesting solutions to them and then learning to use compromise solutions in the Human Rights Committee.

In the Political and Security Committee, a whole day was spent debating a resolution from the delegation representing the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics. A late night meeting brought the Iranian proposal forward and, after being debated and amended, it was submitted to the General Assembly whose final vote on it was a 19-19 tie.

The Population Committee faced the problem of having to clarify a proposal and resubmit it to the General Assembly.

Iran, India, and Brazil combined efforts and submitted a resolution to the General Assembly from the Narcotics and Drug Committee which was passed on a vote of 47 for, 2 opposed, and 1 abstaining.

The group will meet in room 213 Colden Hall at 7:30 p. m. Monday and all interested parties are urged to attend. The next meet will be the Midwest United Nations in St. Louis, which is rated as one of the top meets in the country.

Music, Speech, Theater Students To Present Christmas Program

The program, open to the public, will be given at 2 p. m. and again at 8 p. m. Featured will be a medieval religious offering of one of the Wakefield English mystery cycle plays and a special concert of medieval music by the College Choir. Mr. Gilbert Whitney, assistant professor of music, will direct the concert and Dr. Ralph E. Fulsom, professor of speech and theater, is directing the cycle play, which will be given by students from his acting class, assisted by the College Choir.

The English medieval mystery play, "Mak, the Second Shepherds' Play," will be staged. Prologue Mime Dancers are Francie Boutwell, Shannon Morgan, Pamela Johnson, Mary Kemery, Cathy Smith, and Melody Henn. Members of the play cast are Donald Jackson, Carolyn Farber, Phil Reser, Charles Saunders, John Hindal. Members of the Tableau of Adoration are Charles Myrick and Melody Henn.

On the production staff are Mary Kemery, assistant to the director and stage manager; Charles Myrick, special art work; lighting, Anita Cox, and Pat Hennessy, who are being supervised by Mr. Garth Nichols, instructor of speech and theater. Costumes are under the supervision of Francie Boutwell; make-up, John Hindal; properties, Melody Henn; sound, Stanley Forester.

For the second half of the program the College Choir will present a concert of medieval vocal music including: Hodie Christus Natus Est by Willan; Lullaby My Liking-Medieval Anthology, Holst; We Have Seen His Star—Epiphany, Titcomb; This Day Christ Was Born, Rowley, with Wayne Jackson, Graham, as tenor soloist; Christmas Hymn, Vaughn-Williams; Good Day, Sir Christmas — Seldon Miss, Terry. Marcia Smith is the accompanist for the choir.

Seniors May Get 'Who's Who' Forms

Seniors who want to have their names listed in the national "Who's Who Among American Students" should pick up applications in the Student Senate office or the Union director's office.

The forms may be returned now but no later than the first week of the second semester. This year's honorees will be listed in the national publication as well as in MSC's yearbook, Jim Oliver, student president, stated.

Seniors graduating in either May or December of this school year are eligible for consideration by the "Who's Who" committees.

As Christmas Spirit Sue Johnson Reigns

Miss Sue Johnson, elementary education major from Lewis, Iowa, was named 1970 "Spirit of Christmas" Sunday afternoon at the traditional yule season pageant, "Hanging of the Greens."

Chosen by popular vote of upper class women students on the basis of her leadership, cooperation, and participation in campus activities, Miss Johnson is an active member of Association for Childhood Education, Student National Education Association, and Tower Choir. She also serves as head resident of Perrin Hall.

Miss Johnson has been a member of Madrigal Singers, Union Board, Perrin Hall Dorm Council, "Hanging of the Greens" choir, and Homecoming committee, has served as a freshman orientation leader, and has been vice president of Perrin Hall Dorm Council. The honoree was selected as the 1969 Cass County Dairy Princess and was named Miss Congeniality in the state contest.

Six other senior women who received a high number of votes served as "Bearers of the Green" at this 27th annual Christmas pageant. Coeds who were selected to receive this honor are Twila Anders, Judy Poleroy, Sandy Kriegshauser, Linda Scitter, Pat Castello, and Glenda Thompson.

Serving as hostesses at the tea table following the program were Miss Louann Lewright, dean of women; Miss Camille Walton, assistant dean of women; Mrs. Margaret Wire, director of College Park Court, and Mrs. U. R. Buffington, assistant director in the women's residence halls. Mrs. LaDora Kilgore, director of Roberta Hall, served as pageant adviser.

Charlie Myrick, Trenton, wields a magical touch on a sign for the Good-Time Players' production of "The Hobbit," which is playing this evening and Saturday, beginning at 8 o'clock in the Administration Building Auditorium. Matinee performances will start both days at 1:30 p. m.

Action... Reaction... Effects

Members of the graduating class that started the Bell Tower fund probably little realized the cataclystic action which they may have started, for a number of gifts and scholarships have recently been given to the college in an ensuing series of actions.

The Bell Tower fund was started within the last five years. According to Mr. Everett Brown, assistant to the president, the main purpose behind the tower was to centralize a memorial for people who had studied and worked in and for the college. In the meantime, many other people decided that their funds could be used well in other places on campus.

Although the gifts and scholarships may or may not be direct results of the action taken to build the Bell Tower, the fact is clearly evident that many people have suddenly taken an interest in how our campus might benefit from their help.

Library Benefits

In pursuing this idea, we interviewed several campus leaders.

Mr. James Johnson of Wells Library commented, "I think the Bell Tower idea has made people aware of giving gifts to the college," adding that he felt little had been done in this area before it was decided that the Bell Tower be built.

Recent gifts given to the Library include two or three hundred general books from Fred Rohlf, a student at MSC, and five or six hundred volumes from the law library of John F. Lee. These gifts were received only within the last month, and part of Mr. Lee's library is still on the way.

Friends and relatives of Gary Dagley, an MSC student who was killed in the Vietnam conflict, decided to give money for books for the business department's graduate level. The sum left for the bookshelf was a sizable amount.

Several Scholarships Started

An annual $2,000 four-year memorial scholarship was set up through a bequest of F. K. Ullman, an area farmer.

The Bill George Fund for an agricultural scholarship and the scholarship given in memory of a former Nodaway County prosecuting attorney, Gene Thompson, are examples of money which was first considered for placement in the Bell Tower fund but was placed in areas which campus leaders and members of the honorees' families thought there was a greater need.

An outgrowth from the Bell Tower is a Merit Scholarship fund set up by members of our own faculty. A number of instructors contributed the money they would spend on sending Christmas cards to other faculty members, and the money was set aside for Merit Scholarships. The practice has been in effect for the last two years. In the three years previous to this, the faculty's communal Christmas card money was used to aid the Bell Tower fund, then it was decided that the custom should continue for some other worthy cause.

Many other people have recently made contributions to our college. Some of these may not have been catalyzed by the Bell Tower idea, but one can clearly see that because of these gifts and scholarships, progress is being made on our campus.

Indeed these living memorials and gifts are meeting needs long felt — a need for an expanded library, a need to help students get their education, a need to recognize the contributions made to MSC's growth.

Mr. Brown explained it by saying, "Perhaps through the Bell Tower, we may have awakened a sleeping giant."

To Live a Creation

The ability to create must be one of the most rewarding experiences life has to offer. For creation of any nature, is in itself a gift—one so delicately formed that if it is utilized to its highest degree, generates beauty and satisfaction not only for the creator, but for those who witness its creation.

A painter is one such individual so richly endowed with the ability to create. On his canvas he manipulates and molds his desires and manifestations into form. He paints with his eyes and applies his heart with a brush. With each line, each stroke of his genius, he brings his canvas to life—giving it depth and personality as he synthesizes the colors of his easel. And when he has completed this reflection of his soul, he is content. Then silently he sits back and contemplates its future. If he is fortunate and the painting is well-done, it will live on, and his efforts will not have been futile. But if it is not, his painting and his heart will be tossed aside and condemned to a perpetual death of non-recognition.

Like the blank canvas upon which the painter creates, man himself is born into this world. As he begins to grow and function as an entity, he gathers qualities that specify him as a particular individual, with ideals, morals, and principles of his own making, just as the painter gathers colors of his choosing for the canvas. As his spectrum of experiences widen, he obtains color, and with his new range of emotions he gains depth in his awareness. As he travels the cycle of life, he ages with dignity and wisdom. The deep-creased wrinkles in his face show traces of age, just as the lines on the canvas denote a picture's nearness to completion.

And when termination time comes, he, like the painting, awaits the judgement of his existence. If his life has been full and meaningful, he will be remembered and perhaps even historically renowned. But if his existence has been menial and wasted, his name may be forgotten as soon as he is laid in his grave, like the rejected painting that has been carelessly tossed aside.

Reason for Exodus?

To the Editors:

Everyone is complaining that NWMSC is a suitcase college, but who is doing anything about it? Could some of the conditions here be influencing factors:

Consider, for example, the statement, "I need to go home this weekend to get some clean clothes." Have you considered the truth in this excuse?

A visit to the laundryroom in Hudson Hall about midday or midnight is certain to make one forget how cold it is outside. Upon entering the darkened room (often at least one of the two light-bulbs is burned out), one is greeted by temperatures of at least 80 to 90 degrees. The lack of windows or ventilation of any type insures the maintenance of high temperatures.

After a coed decides she must endure the heat, her next problem is encountered. She finds that she has to wait for a washing machine. Of the 10 machines, seldom does one find more than eight in working order. Eight working machines do not meet the needs of more than 650 girls living in Hudson and Perrin.

Once a washer is available, the girls face the challenges of the machines which will no longer work or will not take their dimes.

By then, it would appear the laundry room battle should be won. To the contrary, the battle has only begun.

While the machine is running, the girl attempts to wash a few delicate items in the sinks provided. Everything goes fine until she attempts to drain the sink. Some of the water then runs all over the floor (the pipe leaks); that is, unless the washing machines are draining at the same time. If that is the case, the sinks become fuller! Only after most of the water from the washers has drained into the sink, does any of it go down the drain.

Once the items are washed, she again waits in line. Eventually, a clothes drier becomes available. She also finds the clothes drying rack is being used. One cycle later, she finds half her clothes did not get dry, so she runs another cycle.

Finally, the clothes are clean and dry. She now wants to fold them — but where? No tables are provided, so she uses one of the unsteady chairs. She must take extra care not to let anything fall on the floor which was possibly swept last year as she does not want to repeat the entire cycle.

Is there a reason why some students go home every weekend? Could not this reason be partially uncalled for?

MSC Weekends:

Nothing to Do?

"I really wouldn't mind staying on campus on weekends if there were anything to do—but there's never anything happening."

This complaint echoes over the campus each week as many MSC students prepare to spend another weekend at home. Perhaps these students should take a closer look at the activities which are being offered on weekends.

A glance at the events scheduled for this weekend, for example, reveals that there will be two performances of the delightful fantasy, "The Hobbit," for theater enthusiasts. Sports fans can attend the MSC Invitational Wrestling Tournament today and tomorrow, or watch the talented 'Cat five in basketball action tomorrow night against Central Missouri State.

Sunday afternoon, students can take a study break (one shouldn't forget finals) and relax as they listen to the Tower Choir concert. (They're really a great group of musicians.) Various campus organizations will also sponsor events this weekend which will offer a chance for student involvement. Thus, these activities should provide ample entertainment—that is unless one is faced with the problem of having more than 24 hours in a day.

What then is the basis for saying there is nothing to do during MSC weekends? Does Home Town really have more to offer than this campus, or do most of the students with "nothing to do" just enjoy being at home more than staying on campus? If the latter case is true, why not admit it and not try to excuse the weekly exodus home by accusing the college of having a lack of activities?

However, some students maintain the lack of activities does not drive them from campus—they simply are not interested in the events which are scheduled. One answer for these students is to become involved in various campus organizations, help plan the activities they want, and perhaps face some of the problems involved in obtaining and scheduling speakers, musical groups, and other programs. Why not try it?—At least it would give you something to do.

Never in history were there more things to vie for people's time and attention. The fact is evident—A really creative person can be selective. So if you still can say, "There's nothing to do," why not start taking a personal inventory by asking: "What's wrong with me?"

For Excitement

Try Mistletoe

Why is one of the most fascinating and exciting customs our country upholds usually ignored?

We remember days—Halloween, Thanksgiving, July Fourth, and May Day. Where would we be without turkey dinner? Even our President cleverly concealed an engagement ring in Pat's May basket in observance of that ancient tradition.

Christmas is a favorite holiday, and with it go many traditions—gift giving, stockings, Christmas trees, and mistletoe.

Probably the most exciting, except the presents, of course, is mistletoe. Why do so many people totally ignore this custom?

In our age, when peace and love are so strongly emphasized, how can anyone pass up an opportunity to share a small part of this love with his fellow man, or woman, as the case may be?

When people see mistletoe, the common reaction is, "Oh look! Mistletoe! What do I do now?" More often than not, the viewer walks away, instead of standing in the doorway and waiting until someone sees him, and plants a sweet kiss on his cheek.

Christmas season is now upon us. Mistletoe is hung in the doorway with care. Be on the lookout, and next time men, steer your beautiful blonde to the mistletoe and claim your bounty. Who knows? — Maybe all she will do is make you an Indian giver!

Art Club to Sponsor Pre-Christmas Sale

The MSC Art Club will hold a three-day pre-Christmas sale of student art work in the main hall of the DeLuce Fine Arts Building, beginning today.

Faculty Chooses Its Representatives On Hearing Group

The initial election of a Faculty Hearing Committee composed of six tenured faculty members was conducted recently by the Faculty Council.

Those elected by the faculty at large were Dr. Irene Mueller, Miss Mary Jackson, Mr. Frederick Handke, Mr. James Saucerman, Mr. Donald Robertson, and Dr. Burton Richey.

The committee is designed primarily to hear cases concerning faculty dismissal. It may also be requested to hear cases concerning college policy and regulations pertaining to the faculty and staff in order to offer an informed, independent opinion.

The six members will determine by lot which individuals will serve one, two, or three-year terms. Members elected thereafter will hold office for three years, and the term of office of two members will expire at the end of each academic year.

Students Must Meet Obligations To Secure College Financial Grant

The following information and time table is important to all students who will need financial aid (NDSL, EOG, Work-Study Employment) during the 1971-72 academic year:

Application for Financial Aid should be obtained at the Office of Student Financial Aid by Feb. 1, 1971. Completed applications should be returned as soon as possible.

Applications may be picked up later and after school opens in the fall, but delay will slow up the processing procedure and could reduce or even eliminate the possibility of securing financial assistance. Regardless of how needy or completely eligible an applicant is, if his application becomes complete after all funds have been awarded, it will be impossible to help him, Mr. Max Fuller, director, said.

All applicants should secure a Family Financial Statement or a Parents' Confidential Statement from the Office of Student Financial Aid and have their parents complete the form as soon as they have filed their Federal Income Tax in January. It would be a good idea to pick these forms up and take them home during Christmas vacation.

As soon as the application for financial aid and results of the Family Financial Statement are received in the Office of Student Financial Aid, they will be processed. A letter will be sent to the applicant indicating the types and amount of aid which will be awarded to the student.

It takes a minimum of six to eight weeks from the time the parents mail their financial statement to complete the entire processing. Any applicant who has submitted all forms and who has not been sent an award or denied within two months should contact the Office of Student Financial Aid.

Boston Gymnast to Aid At Meet, Workshop

Miss Marge Smith, noted gymnast from Boston, will be head judge of MSC's first women's meet of the season today and will conduct a workshop and clinic in gymnastics here Saturday.

Miss Smith is a physical education teacher at Braintree High School in Boston. She has competed in gymnastic events since she was in junior high school and did her collegiate competition at the University of Massachusetts.

Entrants in the meet, against Southwest Missouri State, will include returning team members Pam Bowen, all events; Sandy Stephens, bars and vaulting; and Kathy Vallier, beam and bars.

Reinforcing the veterans will be newcomers Debbie Mendenhall, floor exercise; Dwyla Young, floor exercise; Karen Johnson, vaulting; Becky Brue, beam and floor exercise; Barb Axton, bars, vaulting, and floor exercise; and Becky Owen, bars.

Assisting Miss Smith in the judging of the meet will be Mrs. Cheri Juelsgaard, MSC physical education instructor; Leslie Clark, Sue Rockrow, and Susy Stephens, MSC physical education majors.

Poets, Writers Invited To Submit New Works

All poets and writers are invited to submit entries to Elman Publishing House which is selecting poems and short stories for inclusion in their annual books, "Voices of Poetry 1971" and "Selected Short Stories 1971."

Contestants for poetry may send up to three entries, each of 50 lines or less. Short story contestants may enter only one composition not exceeding 1,800 words. All entries must be accompanied by a self-addressed post-paid envelope.

Entries should be mailed not later than Dec. 15 to Elman Publishing House, 8261 North Bayshore Drive, Miami, Fla., 33138. Winners will be notified by Jan. 15, 1971.

AAUW Boosts Art Memorial Fund

Both official donors and MSC recipients were happy last week when the Maryville Branch of AAUW gave a check for $500 to the fund established to restore and preserve the Percival DeLuce Memorial Collection. Mrs. T. H. Eckert, treasurer, (right) presents the check to President Robert P. Foster as Mr. Robert Sunkel, curator for the collection, (left) and Mrs. James Johnson, branch president, watch approvingly.

The collection, which will be exhibited permanently in the Olive DeLuce Fine Arts Building, was started following the death of Mr. DeLuce's daughter, Miss Olive DeLuce, chairman of the MSC department of fine arts for many years. Miss DeLuce's collection of 19th and 20th century paintings, 18th and 19th century furniture, and other objects of art are included in the collection.

In presenting the works to the college, Dr. Blanch H. Dow, past national president of AAUW and executrix of the estate of Miss DeLuce, said she believes the collection can become the nucleus for one of the most important art centers in the area between Kansas City, Omaha, and Des Moines.

"Our branch is pleased to make this contribution to help restore and preserve the paintings," Mrs. Johnson said. "Our gift is also a living memorial to Miss DeLuce, one of our charter members and a dedicated AAUW worker on all levels of activity."

Dr. Foster reported that several $100 gifts and numerous lesser gifts have been sent for the DeLuce fund during the past week.

Night Club Guests Applaud Pro Kay Dennis

A night club atmosphere was created in the Union Ballroom last Thursday when professional singer Kay Dennis presented a highly acclaimed program of pop music.

The auburn-haired Miss Dennis proved to be a versatile performer as she sang a gamut of songs varying from dramatic ballads to recent pop tunes. Changes of pace were provided with such melodies as "Windmills of Your Mind," "Spinning Wheel," "If You Could See Me Now," and "Aquarius Let the Sun Shine." Her song material and spirited delivery, coupled with a certain personal magnetism, captivated an enthusiastic audience.

The mod vocalist, a Kansas City resident, received strong instrumental support from a professional trio, "The New World," and from the MSC Progressive Jazz Band.

Miss Dennis has performed on the Playboy Club circuit, on television programs, and in night spots in New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, New Orleans, and other cities. Her appearance at MSC was sponsored by the Union Board, the group who transformed the Ballroom into a night club featuring mood candlelight and "cocktail" waitresses.

Alpha Representative Visits Campus Chapter

Miss Barbara Johnston, field representative of Alpha Sigma Alpha, visited the Phi Phi chapter last week.

Nationally there have been more than 150 collegiate and alumnae chapters established throughout the country. The Phi Phi Chapter at MSC was chartered in May 1928.

Miss Janice McKee is president of the Phi Phis.

Pi Omega Pi Initiates 13

Pi Omega Pi, national honorary business education society, met Nov. 17 and accepted a record number of 13 initiates in its membership ceremony.

Those accepted for membership were Jim Blackford, Mary Bowman, W. Eric Riley, Nancy Lusk, Nancy Bredenstener, Linda Greiner, Dennis Coates, Danny George, Regina Fordyce, Carla Cornelius, Sandy Tucker, Colleen Wilson, and Karen Bovaird.

A panel discussion regarding student teaching was held.

Guest panel members were Dr. David Dial, associate professor of education; Sister Mary Jo Schieber, first-year business teacher at Mount Alverno Academy; and Joyce Bell, Pi Omega Pi member. The panel answered questions about the personality, preparation, presentation, and performance of student teachers. Applying for placement, teachers' responsibilities, and problems of new student teachers were also discussed.

The panel suggested the use of lesson plans for the student teacher and use of illustrative materials. They added that too many student teachers try to lecture instead of involving the students in the discussion.

Dean of Women Gives Key Views

Second semester, freshman women will be allowed to use the keys for extended hours beginning spring semester.

The restrictions set up are somewhat like those presently in use. Women must have a 2.00 overall grade average and have parental permission, but must have completed only 12 academic hours.

Miss Louann Lewright, dean of women, explained that parental replies received thus far have indicated that the use of the key by second semester freshmen is acceptable to most.

"I think student reactions are very favorable. I can't see that the revised system will cause any problems," Miss Lewright added.

When asked of the opinion of AWS on the President's decision, Miss Lewright stated, "AWS is in favor of the revised key system. They were slightly upset when the Senate made the proposal and bypassed them."

She explained that at the time the key system was originally initiated, AWS felt second semester freshmen needed time to adjust and develop study habits. They also felt the system should advance gradually.

Freshmen using the key system may begin to pay for and pick up key certificates in the dean of women's office Jan. 11.

Missouri's MULES to Aid Law Enforcement Associations

MULES are usually thought of as being very stubborn, but criminals in Missouri may soon be aware that Missouri has bred a new cooperative hybrid for use in crime detection.

The Missouri Uniform Law Enforcement System (MULES) will be in operation next spring. The system is a computerized law enforcement, criminal justice, information system which will include a computer tele-processing terminal in most levels of law enforcement agencies in Missouri.

Missouri's law enforcement officers will be able to obtain information within seconds on persons, vehicles, and property. The Law Enforcement System is also being designed to provide total and instant access to the National Crime Information Center (NCIC) in FBI Headquarters, Washington, D. C.

Colonel E. I. (Mike) Hockaday, the superintendent of the Missouri State Highway Patrol, in his announcement of the new computer system, emphasized that it is through the combined efforts of the Kansas City and St. Louis Police Departments, along with the work of the State Highway Patrol, that the new communications system is being developed to serve Missouri's law enforcement agencies.

Audience Likes Pacific Ballet

Ballet was on the entertainment bill recently when the Pacific Ballet of San Francisco brought to the campus new and fresh dimensions to the world of dance.

The performance, given to a full house in Charles Johnson Theater, was applauded generously throughout the program, with the company getting several curtain calls at the finale. It featured 15 soloists who are alumni of the finest ballet companies in the U. S. including the New York City Ballet, Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo, and San Francisco Ballet.

The diversified program included selections from "Songs of a Wayfarer," "Nutcracker Pas de Deux," "Pas de Quatre," "Pas Romantique," and "Pulcinella." It was enhanced by background lighting and contrasting costumes.

In commenting on the program, Miss Bonnie Magill, chairman of women's physical education, said, "Our departmental staff was quite pleased with both the attendance and the reception of the ballet performance."

This program was sponsored by the MSC Distinguished Lecture and Performing Arts Committee and the Missouri Council on the Arts.

The Pacific Ballet has drawn complimentary reviews since it was founded by Alan Howard in 1961 when it began touring the West. Since that time, the company has made many appearances including its yearly Christmas performance of "Nutcracker."

Women Display Yuletide Spirit

One MSC coed used this giant-size, eye-catching "Christmas Card" as her unique way of sending an affectionate yuletide greeting to a fellow student.

Lorna . . . who prefers to remain anonymous, had the message placed on a billboard at the Y-junction of Highway 71 and Route 148 north of Maryville in order that Keith . . . could see the sign as he returned to Maryville from his home in Iowa. Although the billboard will remain as it is for only a month, its message will, no doubt, live on.

Around MSC "It's beginning to look a lot like Christmas" as coeds lead in helping the campus take on the Christmas spirit.

Almost everywhere you look you can see signs of the season. Every lobby seems to have a tree, most windows are outlined with lights, and in the women's residence halls, door decorations are as varied as the attractions on a carnival walk way.

Coeds in some sections have hung snowflakes from the ceilings. Other women have strung popcorn to decorate their area. Using different themes such as the 12 days of Christmas, Silver Bells, and Christmas songs, residents have added color and cheer to their doors.

Door decorations range from letters to Santa to calls for peace. A popular choice is the door decorated as a package. Some doors picture the Biblical meaning of Christmas by having Nativity scenes, while other doors have a host Santa. War scenes with the words: "Peace on Earth" decorate one door in North Hudson.

One coed extended her decorating to a nearby highway road sign, which extends special season's greetings to the "Keith" in her life.

The last weekend before finals is upon us, and with it comes the studying and partying long associated with this time of the semester.

Many students will be hitting the books hard and cramming their cranial cavities with more pages of information in two or three days than in the preceding two or three months.

Of course, there are quite a few devoted students who have kept up through the semester and who can go into finals confident that they are well informed in the subject matter of the course. In most cases, this group of students will be the ones that throw the class grading curve out of balance, but they are also the ones who knew what they wanted and worked for it.

There are also the party-goers. While they are not always distinctly separated from the first two groups mentioned, I have noticed that they are usually in college for something other than an education. I've encountered quite a few of them in certain strategic places on the campus — and I don't mean classrooms.

The Bell Tower construction is progressing as the weather permits and the base is taking shape. It may be a while before it's completed since there is a rumor going around that the contractor got confused while reading the blueprints one night, and the Bell Tower is now the Bell Cellar. Of course, this might not be the "hole" story.

While I'm talking about construction, I should mention that the new dorms look as if they are about ready for occupants. There is one associated question students are asking: "What are the trailers going to be used for — married students? more coeds? sorority members? college guests?"

A loose connection caused much excitement Dec. 1 . . . the entire population of College Park Court turned out around 10:30 p. m. (some in robes covering nightgowns) to watch

Advanced registration is a privilege and the privilege implies a responsibility. Should a student verify his intention of enrolling and then change his mind and not attend Northwest Missouri State College, he must deliver written notice to the Advisement Center in order for his enrollment to be cancelled.

Failure to provide the written notice will result in the failure of all courses. The failure of the courses will be recorded on the permanent record of the student.

Christmas Ball Is Victim of Change

This year at Northwest Missouri State College a Christmas Ball will be only a memory.

Union Board president Bill Musgrave gave as the reasons for the departure from tradition: "The Kay Dennis program was scheduled to replace the dance, even though our publicity may not have indicated this."

Problems in securing the Ballroom and the dwindling crowds at the annual Ball caused cancellation of it, he added.

Traditionally, the dance was an event open to all the students. Musgrave commented that most students are beginning to feel that such events are "old, cliched, and in general not well-attended."

This year has been the first in which more than two or three concerts were scheduled. There have already been three student-sponsored concerts during the first semester, two by the Union Board and the Lettermen by Tau Kappa Epsilon. At least two more are in the contracting stage for the coming semester, the president said.

"Coffee houses, first-rate films, and fewer, but better speakers will replace such events as the Christmas Ball," concluded Musgrave.

Ski Trip Vacancies

Because of a few last minute cancellations, there are now vacancies open for students wishing to go on the ski trip to Winter Park, Colo.

Total cost of the vacation time trip is $119.00. Anyone who is interested should contact Mr. Marvin Sillman, Union director, immediately.

Dr. Beeks Speaks To Kiwanis Club About Ag Majors

Dr. John Beeks, chairman of the department of agriculture, gave facts in a recent address to the Maryville Kiwanis Club to show the success of MSC agriculture graduates.

"Graduates with degrees in agriculture have received starting salaries averaging approximately $8,500 a year. The salaries range from about $7,500 to $11,500 annually. Many of the firms that have hired our agriculture graduates have been interested in securing more employees from MSC," Dr. Beeks said.

The speaker also reported, "Most of the current 300 majors in agriculture are taking agribusiness courses. Since many of the MSC students are from small towns and farms, they are oriented to working with the problems faced by farmers."

Record Exam Results Available to Seniors

Results of the UP Undergraduate Record Exam are now available in the counseling department.

Seniors who took the examination can pick up their copy of the results along with the national norms. Results are intended to help seniors obtain insight into their verbal and quantitative strengths as well to serve as a predictor of how well they might do on the Graduate Record Exam should they plan to go on to graduate school.

In addition, the college will be able to gather data concerning its graduating seniors for college accreditation by the North Central Association, thus validating the diploma of MSC graduates.

Men's Service Group Seeks Applications for Scholarships

The men of Beta Upsilon chapter of Alpha Phi Omega have announced that applications for an Ugly Man on Campus scholarship for the academic year 1971-1972 may be picked up in the Financial Aids Office, according to John Moberg, president.

Any student of Northwest Missouri State College who will be a junior or a senior next fall, and who will have at least a 2.25 grade point average Jan. 1, 1971, is eligible to apply. Scholarships will be awarded solely on the basis of financial need of the student.

The scholarships are made possible by the proceeds of the annual Ugly Man on Campus contest sponsored by Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity. A $10,000 scholarship fund has been established with the Business Office, and the accruing interest from this fund will be used for each $250 UMOG scholarship.

Applications for the scholarship, plus a parents' confidential statement, must be completed and returned to the Office of Financial Aids no later than Feb. 1, 1971.

Billiards Players Advance in Meet

Larry McCarty, student intramural director, has announced the intramural billiard tournament is now in its quarter final division.

The tournament games, which began Nov. 30 in the Union games area, are played on a 25-point, re-rack basis. Each player shoots a 14-1 call shot game.

The players who have advanced into final play are Jay Wilson, Cullen Geist, Darrel Hane, and Bill Vaughan, Sigma Tau Gamma; Dale Lesan, Tau Kappa Epsilon; Jim Alwan, Phi Sigma Epsilon, and Dave Gillespie.

The intramural basketball season is also underway with fraternities competing on Mondays and Wednesdays and independents playing on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Pop music and Christmas carols — both will be offered when the Tower Choir gives its annual concert at 3 p. m. Sunday in the Charles Johnson Theater.

The choir, directed by Mr. Byron Mitchell, will blend voices in rendition of such popular songs as "Good Morning Starshine" from the musical "Hair," "Both Sides Now," "Raindrops Keep Falling on My Head," and "Spinning Wheel." Christmas music from several countries will also be presented. The choir will sing Yuletide carols from England, Spain, and France, plus traditional songs such as "Twas the Night before Christmas" and the "Hallelujah Chorus" from Handel's "Messiah."

Featured soloists in the program are Phil Farnan, Cynthia Polston, Rick Ashby, and Sheila Nelson. Mrs. Byron Mitchell is accompanist for the group.

The concert is open to the public, and there is no admission fee.

Besides rehearsing for Sunday's on-campus concert in past weeks, the Tower Choir has been busy since Wednesday giving performances throughout the Northwest Missouri area. The tour included presentations at high schools in Rosendale, Kansas City, Weston, and today's performance in Plattsburg. The choir also taped a television show for airing at KQTV in St. Joseph.

Bearcats to Face Pair Of MIAA Contenders

After downing its first three basketball opponents, Northwest Missouri State will host Central Missouri State and Southwest Missouri State, co-winners of the MIAA crown last season, in the Bearcats' first conference games of the year.

Fresh from a 23-point victory over Missouri Western, the 'Cats will battle the Central Mules tomorrow night. With nine returning lettermen, including four starters from last year's team, which posted a 19-6 record, the Mules are certainly picked as the conference favorite.

Returning Mule starters are Ted Bozarth, 6-3; Ervin Fuller, 6-6; Jim Utley, 6-3; and Terry Bozzay, 6-6. Bozzay has been moved from forward into the center spot. A question mark may exist in the health of Fuller, who will play a key role in the Mules' campaign. He underwent knee surgery early last season and never regained his complete form.

The Bearcats will close out their four-game home stand with a Monday night game against the Southwest Bears.

All-America Bear Graduated

MSC fans will be happy to hear that their team won't have to contend with Southwest's Curtis Perry, who graduated last year after being chosen as an All-America player.

The Bears, however, have six returning lettermen to build around, plus some outstanding newcomers. Lettermen Chuck Williams, 6-2; Bud Rice, 6-5; Ray Snelling, 6-3; Eric Thompson, 6-2; Bob Curl, 5-10; and Tom Harshbarger, 6-5, will provide Coach Bill Thomas with a solid scoring punch, as well as a large number of rebounds.

Speedy Southwest Team

Thomas believes that his team has more speed than in past years, and he expects the Bears to play a fast paced game.

Last season the Bearcats dropped both of their games to Central by the identical margin of two points. Northwest then stayed in contention for a share of the loop crown late in the season by avenging an earlier season loss to Southwest.

There is little doubt that these first two conference games could have a direct bearing on the conference standings at the end of the season.

Monday night's Missouri Western game will undoubtedly serve as a confidence booster for the Bearcats, who now realize that they are capable of playing a superior brand of basketball.

If Northwest can "get it all together" in these next two contests, Central and Southwest may well be heading for the chopping block when they invade Lamkin Gym.

MSC Superiority Awards Presented

Awards were presented for Homecoming Supremacy (Greek men and women and independents), and Scholarship Supremacy (Greek men and women) during halftime activities at last Saturday night's basketball game.

Recipients of the awards were, Homecoming — Phi Sigma Epsilon, Sigma Sigma Sigma, and Gamma Sigma Sigma Alpha Phi Omega scholarship — Alpha Sigma Alpha and Phi Sigma Epsilon.

Grapplers Host MSC Tourney

The Northwest Missouri State College wrestlers will attempt to retain their NWMSC Invitational Tournament Championship this Saturday in Lamkin Gymnasium.

The first round is scheduled to start at 7:30 o'clock Saturday morning. The semi-finals start at 10 a. m., the wrestle-backs begin at 1 p. m. and the final round at 2:30.

"The teams participating in this year's tournament are from different and tougher schools than those who competed here last year," according to head coach George Worley. "Kirksville, Northeast Missouri, and Wayne State, Neb., will be the only teams returning from last year's tournament while we have added a Big 8 representative, Kansas State, plus Western Illinois, Westmar, Upper Iowa, and Parsons," he added.

As last year's champions, MSC boasts three returning individual champions; Jack Garrett, who will jump up to the 134 lb. class from the 118 bracket; Terri Hostetter at 153; and Gary James, who will move up from the 150 lb. class to 167 or 177.

Other Bearcats who are expected to perform well are Paul Hoversten at 118, Jim Burwell at 126, Mark Elliot at 142, Loren Schweizen at 150, Kent Jorgensen 167, and Harley Griffieon at 190.

Denny Hansen, the MSC heavyweight, is out with an injury, and a replacement will be named by Coach Worley.

Literary Edition Slated for Dec. 18

There will be one more issue of the Northwest Missourian this semester — a Friday, Dec. 18, edition.

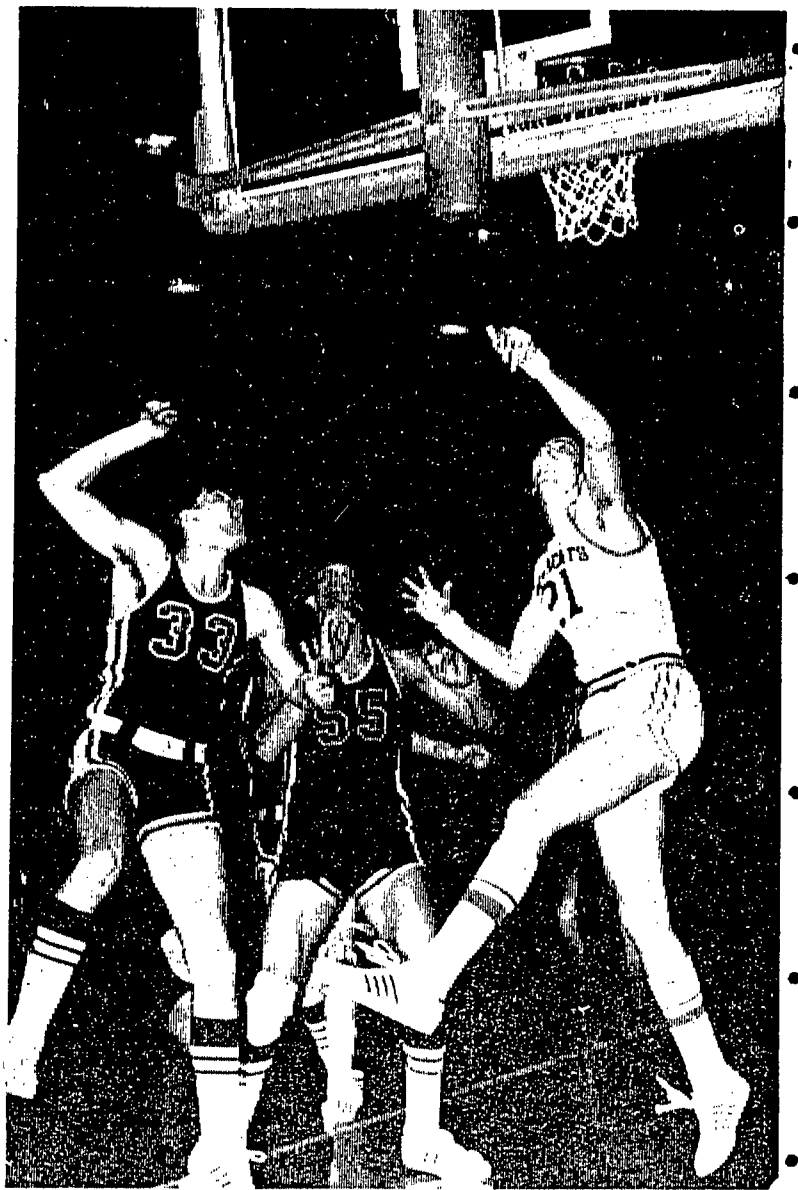

Two pages of this four-page issue, an extra edition, will be our bi-annual Literary Edition. Remember to pick one up.

Dr. Frank Grube, sponsor, has set Jan. 22 as the deadline for submitting poetry for the annual edition of the "Green and White," booklet.

An April 23 deadline has been set for the spring Literary Edition of the Northwest Missourian.

'Cats Stymie Griffons

Ned Gardner outreaches two Griffins in their fight for a rebound.

The Bearcats of Northwest Missouri overcame some early shooting problems to roll over the Missouri Western Griffons 99-76 Monday night in Lamkin Gymnasium.

Most of the first half the ball game had all the earmarks of being a real barn burner as the lead continually changed hands. Late in the half Coach Dick Buckridge went to his bench in an effort to fire up his club.

Coach Buckridge inserted Don Johnson into the lineup with the score knotted at 25 all.

Johnson's floor play and timely shooting set the Bearcat offensive machine in motion. MSC ripped off 10 straight points and went on to grab a 52-33 halftime lead.

During the first half surge it was Carl Jenkins and Don Nelson who carried the Bearcats forward as each recorded 12 counters.

In the second half the 'Cats continued their assault on the frustrated Griffons. Darnell Moore picked up the pace hitting two quick jumpshots, and the other players joined in. Moore scored 10 points, Gary Wood added eight, and Tom Hill came off the bench to add seven free throws and a bucket for nine points.

At one time the 'Cats led by as much as 28 points, and at the final gun they had five men in double figures while recording their third victory against no defeats.

Whitney, Wood Guide 'Cats In Defeating Washburn U.

The clutch shooting performance of Ken Whitney and the strong rebounding of Gary Wood guided MSC to a 71-66 victory Saturday evening over previously unbeaten Washburn University.

Whitney, senior co-captain from Des Moines, ripped the strong Washburn man-to-man defensive press for 22 points, as he cashed in on 9 of 11 field goal attempts and four of six free throws.

Wood, a junior college transfer from Moberly, was credited by Coach Dick Buckridge as playing a big role in the game's final outcome. The 6-5 forward grabbed 16 caroms to lead the 'Cats to a strong rebounding edge over the Ichabods, 62 to 33.

The victory kept the Bearcats in the undefeated ranks, as they upped their season's mark to 2-0.
